

Hitler Makes Visit To Patrol Boat

Berlin Reveals Surprise Visit

Yuletide Truce Brings Air Warfare To Temporary Halt

TRUCE EXTENDS FOR THREE DAYS

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—Chancellor Hitler paid a surprise Christmas eve visit aboard a German naval patrol boat "somewhere in the west (evidently the English channel), it was disclosed today as the three-day Yuletide truce brought Anglo-German air warfare to a temporary halt.

Hitler, authorities revealed, boarded the patrol boat only a few hours after his army commander, Field Marshal Walter von Brauchitsch, had declared in a broadcast from a German coastal battery that the channel would protect Britain "only so long as it pleases us."

In 1939 Hitler celebrated Christmas eve among his soldiers on the western front opposite the Maginot line, then still intact. This year he joined the sailors of the patrol boat in a Christmas party.

Welcomed By Commander
The commander of the vessel welcomed the fuhrer and assured him the sailors were confident of victory.

No bombers roared overhead during Hitler's visit as a result of the German attack Dec. 24, 25 and 26 provided the R. A. F. reciprocated.

Authoritative German quarters asserted that German planes would not violate the aerial truce and warned that any British air raid during the truce period would bring "swift retribution."

They stressed that the respite would be confined strictly to the three-day period and "does not concern anything thereafter."

Berlin newspapers this morning emphasized official implications that the English channel will prove no more of an obstacle to the German armed force than did the Maginot line last spring. They predicted Germany will celebrate Christmas in "peace and great victory."

PLANE ATTACK IS MADE BY ITALIANS

of any kind, the raids were directed entirely against the civil population by Italian airmen who incurred no dangers.

The island of Luecas also was bombed on Christmas day but there were no victims or damage.

Win New Victory
West of the Drinos river, meanwhile, the Greeks won a new victory by driving back the Italians in a spirited attack during which 18 guns, large quantities of material and a number of prisoners, including officers, were captured.

Further north, several small villages were occupied by the advancing Greeks, according to dispatches from the front, which added that Italian reinforcements rushed into the fray were unable to alter the situation.

Gen. Alexander Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek army, sent Christmas greetings to his own forces and to the British airmen supporting them. In an order of the day to his troops Papagos stated:

"Greetings of the heroic Greek troops fighting in the snow-covered Albanian mountains. It is thanks to you that we celebrate Christmas ain's traditional post-Christmas holiday, set aside for centuries as the day for opening Christmas boxes.

Thankful that the unofficial aerial truce, now apparently at an end, had brought them two consecutive nights of respite from Nazi air attacks the greatest holiday throngs since the beginning of the war jammed London's west end streets.

Great queues of pleasure-bent people lined up outside all motion picture houses and theatres and London restaurants teemed with soldiers, sailors and airmen, adding color and gaiety to the holiday crowd.

Amazed At Cheerfulness
Foreign observers were amazed at the cheerfulness and sense of confidence and optimism everywhere evident as the aftermath of Christmas and at the holiday spirit that seemed more reminiscent of peacetime than of war.

But in authoritative quarters belief prevailed that the truce that halted the Nazi bombings had its course and that new and perhaps fiercer German raids may be Britain's lot in future.

Nevertheless, the atmosphere of confidence remained strong in all quarters—and best of all for Londoners there were no new air raid alarms in the capital.

This morning, after a single incident had marred the Christmas truce, the air and home security ministries issued this joint communique:

"There is nothing to report since the last communique."

Bombless Night
Amid continuing Yuletide celebrations, the British Isles passed a second consecutive bombless night, and thus the "truce" appeared to be effective although it was not formally arranged or officially recognized by the British government.

The single Christmas belligerent action in the air involved a solitary Nazi machine which flew over the Orkney Islands, off the upper tip of Scotland, apparently on a reconnaissance mission. It was shot down by fighters of the British naval air arm, and its crew of four taken prisoner.

British planes reciprocated the German truce move by refraining from bombing attacks against Germany or the occupied territories.

EXPECT PRESIDENT TO APPROVE SALE OF 44 U. S. CARGO VESSELS

time commission is not expected to offer any of its modern fleet for sale later since the vessels are designed to provide a backlog of auxiliary ships for the U. S. Navy.

Other Ships
Operating under the American flag are some 1,100 other cargo vessels owned by private firms. About 100 other ships, owned by Germany, Italy, Denmark, France, Latvia and Estonia have been tied up at American ports since outbreak of the European war.

There was a distinct possibility that Mr. Roosevelt will touch on the subject in his radio talk Sunday night. The talk which will be a carefully worded address, will be his first of two major addresses in the coming 10 days since he also will deliver his message to Congress on the state of the union early in January.

White House sources said the fire-side chat will furnish the country and Congress enough to chew on for a while. In it, the President expected to call on the nation for a supreme national defense drive to step up production of war materials for both the U. S. and Britain.

There is increasing indication that the administration and Britain believe that England can take the offensive against Germany if it gets enough war supplies.

Meanwhile, CIO leaders, who earlier this week offered Mr. Roosevelt a plan to turn out 500 pursuit planes a day in the automobile industry, arranged a radio broadcast by Walter Reuther, auto workers union official for Saturday to elaborate on it.

members have a tree in the living room. It was beautifully decorated until a couple of nights ago when some one got in and stripped the tree of about half its trimmings.

The weatherman certainly made good on the forecast that there would not be a white Christmas in this district. Weather yesterday was as balmy as early spring, and the sun was out much of the day.

Boys who got bicycles and wagons from Santa Claus this Christmas had the jump on the lads who got sleds and skates. There was no possible chance of trying out a sled or pair of skates yesterday, while the day was ideal for bicycle. A lot of shiny new bicycles were in evidence on the streets.

Auto caravans were noted on the streets of the city until late at night. Christmas, as the city was toured for inspection of the many brilliantly decorated homes, which mark the holiday season.

Out along the Perry highway near Harlansburg, Pa. New noted yesterday that a farmer had been at work in the past day or two plowing up a field.

New Castle folks who went to Florida to escape cold and snow for Christmas, could not have found much nicer weather than the Weather Man dished out here yesterday, although it was quite unseasonable. The official high temperature for the day was 62 degrees with a nice warm sun beaming down. It proved a great disappointment to youngsters who received sleds and skates for Christmas, but the youths who got bicycles were in their element and gave the new Christmas presents a good work out.

Downtown traffic on Tuesday afternoon and evening preceding Christmas was unusually heavy, apparently a lot of residents of other weather conditions to travel to distant points. Long lines of traffic were continuous through the city for hours.

TRUCE EXTENDS THREE DAYS ON BRITISH FRONT

artillery and air bomb duel between Italian and British forces continued at Bardia.

One London report said that Russian garrisons on the Rumania and British forces were being reinforced following the rumored dispatch of from 150,000 to 200,000 German troops through Hungary to Rumania.

British war leaders gave comfort to their civilians with predictions of victory while Geneva heard unfounded rumors of German troop movements into Rumania—perhaps to balk Russia in the Balkans or perhaps to aid Italy against Greece.

Italians In Christmas Raid
From Athens came word that Greek operations were continuing successfully along the Albanian front. At the same time it was charged that Italian planes, in a Christmas day bombing raid on a fortified Corfu had killed 15 civilians and injured 30 or more. British bombers subjected the Italian-held stronghold and port of Valona, on Albania's Adriatic coast, to a terrific aerial attack.

In Libya, according to dispatches from Cairo, British forces were closing around the Italian port of Bardia for a decisive frontal blow. Italian planes, in a desperate effort to gain control of the air over Bardia, smashed repeatedly at the British positions, diving-bombing troops and front-line defenses. But British advisers said the Italian attacks were ineffective and caused relatively few casualties.

A Rome announcement claimed the Italian submarine Serpente had attacked and sunk a British light cruiser.

Plane Report Is Unconfirmed

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—No planes on scheduled flights in this area are unaccounted for, airline and Civil Aeronautics board officials said today in checking an unfounded report that a plane had crashed near the Ohio River.

Both Transcontinental & Western Air and Pennsylvania Airlines reported that all their ships were on the ground or accounted for. The local CAB office at the Pittsburgh municipal airport likewise said it had "everything in" and had had no army planes crossing this morning.

The time declared that Russia would not tolerate such Rumanian activities, as a result, some quarters believed the Germans were preparing to check any possible Soviet move against Rumania.

Another unexplained move that still was the subject of intense speculation was a recent announcement by Hungarian authorities that railroad traffic would be reduced substantially after midnight, December 28.

All Hungarian Christmas Eve travelers were requested to end their vacations and return home by that date. No reason was given for this limitation of traffic, which conceivably might point to use of the railway facilities for troop movements.

Seven Killed In Crash
Seven persons were killed and four others injured when two automobiles collided at Lexington, Neb.

Four Illinois high school boys were killed when their automobile crashed into a tree and burned near Kenosha, Wis.

Nine persons died in the Chicago region from traffic accidents. Georgia counted at least 10 deaths from highway wrecks. Seven were killed in one accident, caused when two cars skidded on wet pavement and crashed head-on near Savannah, Christmas Eve.

In Los Angeles county traffic deaths on Christmas Eve and Christmas day numbered twelve, bringing the toll for the year to date 1,002 fatalities.

Traffic fatalities in California on Christmas day totaled 16. Colorado reported four highway fatalities and the death of a four-month-old boy by suffocation in his crib while his parents were hanging Christmas decorations.

Montana had two highway deaths, and two men were poisoned by alcohol.

New Mexico had one fatality, that of an eight-year-old boy struck by a hit-run driver.

CITY STRUGGLES BACK TO NORMAL

a brilliant sun and the old timers were moaning in their whiskers about the "good old days" back in '39.

Some folks went to bed at a decent hour Christmas Eve but they were few. Over the entire city, household lights were burning until the clock was down in the low numbers. Cafes didn't do such a land office business, apparently people were holding their celebrations at home. This fact is buttressed somewhat by the lightness of the police docket.

Hundreds of cars roamed the city Christmas Eve and Christmas night viewing the Christmas light decorations. Just off hand we would say that Summer avenue west of Highland, is the "avenue of light." Almost every home is decorated and the scene is a pretty one. Several other hill streets have decorations but none quite as profuse as Summer.

Theaters did a big business and hotels also. Not every family held its dinner at home on Christmas Day and the hotels profited by it. There were a number of church programs on Christmas also.

With Christmas over, the "next thing is New Year's Eve with its hoopla and merrymaking. Indications are that the celebration this year will be on the jovial side. New Year's Eve comes on Tuesday, December 31, (or did you know?) What restrictions were on last year due to its being Sunday night are removed this year and the boys and girls are planning to open up 1941 in a big way.

RUMOR GERMAN TROOPS MOVING INTO RUMANIA heightened by rumors that Bulgaria and Turkey soon may sign a pact of friendship.

See Complications
On the other hand, it was predicted, if Bulgaria should permit German forces to cross her territory, Turkey would carry out her recent threat to occupy Eastern Thrace, thereby undoubtedly spreading the European war over fresh Balkan territory.

In addition, it was recalled that on Monday the Soviet ambassador to Bucharest presented a note to the Rumanian foreign office, protesting against "anti-Soviet activities of the Rumanian government under the pretext of prosecuting Communists."

The note declared that Russia would not tolerate such Rumanian activities, as a result, some quarters believed the Germans were preparing to check any possible Soviet move against Rumania.

Another unexplained move that still was the subject of intense speculation was a recent announcement by Hungarian authorities that railroad traffic would be reduced substantially after midnight, December 28.

Airdromes Bombed
The Fascist airdromes at Timimi and Gazala were singled out for some of the heaviest raids, and returning pilots reported that direct hits with heavy calibre bombs had been scored on the airports' ground establishments.

While preparations were being completed for the frontal attack on Bardia, British mechanized patrols were sweeping still deeper into Libya to the west and northwest of the besieged stronghold.

In the other African theatre of war—the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan—Ethiopia frontier—clashes between British and Italian patrols were reported. The high command claimed that the British forces "inflicted casualties" on the Fascist units.

Europe's woes and their effect on the United States underlined many a Christmas sermon.

Christmas War Truce
England and Germany enjoyed an unofficial Christmas truce but in North Africa and Albania the war went on relentlessly. Even Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus Christ, was blacked out by the war.

President Roosevelt led the nation in the traditional American way of observing Christmas, an early arising to see what Santa Claus had left then attendance at religious services and finally Christmas dinner.

The poor, the homeless and the friendless were all well taken care of by charitable organizations. The soldier boys, many spending their first Christmas in army camps away from home, also were laden with gifts not even prison inmates were forgotten.

R. G. LESLIE HOME IS ANNIVERSARY SCENE

While Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Leslie of Moore avenue were much aware of the date of December 25, marking their 40th wedding anniversary, they never dreamed that others would remember it too, and to commemorate the event they found themselves in the midst of a gala celebration throughout the day, as relatives and friends called to extend congratulations, taking them totally by surprise.

Cards with messages of congratulation, telegrams and gifts also poured in, as well as special deliveries, making the day most complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie were married on Christmas day, 40 years ago, the ceremony taking place on the porch of the Methodist church of this city, with the late Rev. Golden Wedding Held At Frank L. Kelly Home

To commemorate a notable occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Kelly of 319 Park avenue, a well known and highly esteemed couple, received at "open house" in formal dinner dress, a host of guests including relatives and friends and neighbors on Christmas night, from 7 until 10:30 o'clock, in observance of their golden wedding anniversary. Over a hundred were registered in the "guest book."

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with an abundance of many lovely floral gifts, received from admiring friends, which were combined with the Yuletide motif. A brilliantly lighted Christmas tree, and the large table in the spacious dining room centered with a miniature white and gold sleigh drawn by six little white reindeer with a mirror Santa carrying a huge bouquet of gold flowers attracted much attention. Refreshments were served the callers, who pointed in extending congratulations to the honored couple. The outside of the house was equally as beautiful, with ornamental lights being strung about extending a cheery greeting to their host of guests upon entering.

During the morning and afternoon hours, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly spent the time quietly with their family, and at 3 o'clock, they enjoyed a full course dinner menu, amidst a colorful setting. Their children, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Speer and Becky and Edgar Speer, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin Kelly and J. Martin Kelly, Jr., of Dayton, O., shared this feature as well as Mr. Kelly's brother, C. L. Kelly of Pittsburgh.

Of special mention, is the fact that Mrs. Kelly's mother, Mrs. Rebecca J. Martin who makes her home with the principals, was feeling in best of health and able to participate in the delightfully planned golden anniversary of her daughter.

Many handsome gifts, appropriate to the event, were received by Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, as additional mementos of the day.

Aides throughout the evening, included Mrs. David Nesbitt, Mrs. LeRoy Martin and Mrs. Newell Kelly.

WOODRING-WHITING EVENT CHRISTMAS DAY

On Christmas Day, Miss Elizabeth Jane Woodring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodring of Almira avenue, became the bride of Wilber Allan Whiting, son of Mrs. Ethel Whiting of West State street, in an impressive wedding ceremony, performed in the Second United Presbyterian church on County Line St.

The Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor officiated in the presence of an assembly of 200 guests of the couple, the vows being exchanged at 4 o'clock. The single ring service was used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her quaint gown of white moire, made toe, length with train and long sleeves. Her veil falling from crescent cap, was also entrain, and she carried a colonial arm bouquet, of white roses and white carnations.

Her only jewelry was a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Dorothy Palko, as maid of honor, was attired in a pink silk taffeta gown, made floor length, patterned along similar lines of that worn by the bride. Encircling her head, was a wreath of gardenias and she carried an arm cluster of roses and carnations in various colors, giving a striking contrast.

Don McGrew of this city, served the bridegroom as best man, while ushering were James Whiting, of New Bedford, John Boyard, Glen Wyrle and Kenneth Woodring.

For the occasion, the church was beautifully decorated, the aisles being enhanced with huge bows of red ribbon, and the middle aisle in all white, led to the altar, flanked with ferns and palms, which provided a solid green background for the pyramids of white flowers, artistically arranged, with consummate skill by the florist. Lighted cathedral candle in branching candelabrum, completed the setting.

Adding further to this impressive picture, was the program of music provided by organist, Mrs. W. L. Rainey, of Grove City. Preceding the entrance of the wedding party, she played, "Evening Prayer," "O Promise Me," "To A Wild Rose," "Even Song" and throughout the exchange of vows "Because," was softly resounded. However, as tones of the triumphant recessional faded, echoes of chimes "Christmas Carols" were recorded as the couple received congratulations of their hosts of friends in the church vestibule.

A wedding dinner served at a local tea room, supplemented the ceremony, covers marking for members of the immediate families, numbering thirty. The nuptial motif was cleverly carried out in the table appointments.

Later, the couple left on a motor tour of the Southern states, and for going away, the bride wore a dusty pink crepe ensemble, with black accessories. They will take up residence in their newly furnished apartment at 201 East Moody avenue, upon their return to New Castle.

The bride, a graduate of New Castle high school, has been employed at the Gilmore Drug store on the East Side. The bridegroom, a graduate of Union High, is connected with the American Cyanamid Chemical Corporation.

The rehearsal was given Monday evening, by Miss Palko, the supper being served at a tea room downtown.

Displayed at the bride's residence, is a collection of many beautiful shower and wedding gifts, which they received, further testifying to the high esteem, they are held by their host of friends and relatives.

At a lovely family dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Maybrey on Morton street, Wednesday the news that their daughter, Ruth Redd Maybrey, would become the bride of James E. Hilborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Hilborn of Sharon, on January 17, was cleverly revealed in little Santa Claus envelopes.

Afternoon hours were enjoyed in music, chat and plans for the coming wedding.

C. D. OF A. DANCE FRIDAY EVENING

Among the outstanding dance events on the holiday's social calendar is the Catholic Daughters of America semi-formal dance, which is to take place on Friday evening in The Castleton ballroom.

All previous dances held by this organization have proved to be successes, and this occasion, which is strictly invitational, will be no exception, according to Chairman Ruth Clark.

Dancing will start at nine o'clock and will continue until a late hour, the music being provided by a popular orchestra.

Assisting the chairman for the dance will be the following committees: orchestra, Angelina Colella, Clare Gilroy and Inez Calvanese; tickets, Rhea Davis, Betty O'Donnell, Ann L. Barnes, M. E. Joyce, Josephine Kirk, Martha Maher, Rita Metz and Elizabeth Sanson; invitations, Rose Greene, Rose Chill and Mary Chill; publicity, Palma Julian, Mildred Donegan and Mary Alice Carey.

Four generations were represented at the Christmas dinner held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Coulter on Harrison street Wednesday, December 25, when they entertained informally in observance of the Yuletide season.

The house took on a true Christmas appearance with its holiday decorations, and the dining table where a deliciously prepared full course dinner was served, was most attractively appointed. The time that ensued was spent in opening holiday packages, and informal pastimes.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Coulter of Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pepper, Thelma Rupert, Marian Pepper and Mrs. Paul Pepper of Harmony, Mrs. E. N. Boots of Camp Run, Charles Coulter of Indiana, Pa., and Luther Pepper of Sheffield, Pa.

NEW BRITISH AMBASSADOR

OFFICIALLY, Lord Halifax, who succeeds the late Lord Lothian, is the British King's Ambassador-designate to the United States. Actually he is Winston Churchill's selection, and in these critical times a man is not chosen for such an important post for his surface qualities and drawing-room manners.

If the Prime Minister and the new Ambassador have not always seen eye-to-eye and indeed have supported clashing policies in the past, they have been united ever since the beginning of the acute stage of their country's grave emergency, opines the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It is unusual for a British Foreign Minister to be transferred to what ordinarily would be considered a subordinate position abroad, to a place heretofore filled by one who in a sense had been subject to his orders. But though not of Cabinet rank, the British Ambassador in Washington today is entrusted with responsibilities in no degree inferior to those of some of the highest members of his Government. The British say they are sending the best man who could be found for the post. This appointment means so much to them that its fitness need not be questioned. Mr. Churchill's choice of Lord Halifax speaks louder than words of his continued confidence in the new appointee, which had been manifested by his retention in the War Cabinet.

Although Lord Halifax is in so many respects a striking contrast to his predecessor in Washington, there is no reason to believe he will not be equal to his new and tremendous responsibilities. Certainly his lifelong devotion to the cause of peace, quite compatible with his equal devotion to the cause of victory over ruthless-aggression, will not render him less acceptable to the peace-loving American people.

SHADES OF MELVILLE!

Shades of Davy Jones' locker, what is the world coming to? Out in Seattle scientists are testing a ship designed to extract oil from the minute plankton food of whales instead of from the leviathans themselves. This, if it succeeds, will be getting whale oil most directly from the source.

Plankton, floating organic sea life, on which, more than 100 fanthoms deep, great whales feast, has been found to contain oil. Up to now whalers have been content to let the whales eat the plankton and then, harpooning this greatest living mammal, laboriously remove the oil from the carcass. But the new plan calls for pumping untold billions of tiny organisms into a ship's press, thus extracting the oil.

What would the New England whalers of a hundred years and more ago say to this? The lookouts of these whalers must often have shouted: "That she blows and sparm!" Then the boats were lowered, the chase was started, the harpoons were thrown and followed the cry: "Star, all!" Finally the lance was driven deep into the vitals of the whale, and if the boat crew luckily escaped the thrashing flukes, they towed their prize back to the ship, where the blubber was tried out.

Whaling has changed since those days. Perhaps, in the remote reaches of the Arctic are those who still get their leviathans by hand harpoons. But the harpoon gun has mostly supplanted these. Now comes the plankton method.

Moby Dick, learning this, must leap his ghostly length from the depths, and spirits of New Bedford whalers, from their lookouts, must view uneasily the new preparations. Soon gone forever will be the cry: "Thar she blows!"

BACK TO ARMOR AND CAVES

When Sir Lancelot rode forth to war he was sheathed in armor that was more rugged in front than behind. That was because he had less to fear from a dastard's dagger in his back than from a foe's spear or broadsword ahead of him. And your true knight would rather be struck dead in battle than turn around and try to hurry away from there.

Things are different now. The new bullet-proof, body conforming armor being made in this country for warplane pilots is more heavily reinforced in the rear than in front. That's because the plane itself offers some protection head-on, whereas the pilot is a comparatively plain target to the enemy flier tailing him.

Science is doing amazing things to warfare, but the human problem of self-preservation is pretty much the same. Warriors now are so modern that they're getting back to armor. In England hundreds of thousands of people burrow in the ground for protection and a new cave man era looms for much of the world's population.

It is helpful to remember that in spite of throwbacks to barbarism, in spite of Goths, Vandals and Huns, mankind has managed, not merely to survive, but to keep pushing forward toward what is fondly hoped to be a better destiny. So it will undoubtedly be this time—if there are enough caves and enough suits of armor.

WAR AND ROMANCE

Printing presses as well as hearts fluttered, and war news was side-tracked, the other night, when the engagement of Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul was announced. The vibration was felt in Europe as well as America, and the Nazi bombs made no difference. While the night bombing of London was at its height, the London Daily Express paused and cabled to its American correspondent: "Deanna Durbin reported engaged; rush everything about romance." And everything was rushed accordingly.

Well, it's an old custom, as old as human history. The most famous of all recorded wars, the one fought 3,000 years ago by the Greeks and Trojans at Troy, on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, was fought over a woman, and fair Helen and her romantic and domestic doings are woven into Homer's account as faithfully as any of the needs of the fighting heroes.

Come to think of it, are we getting enough feminine news in this war?

Only yesterday flights across the Atlantic were called stunts. Now they're necessities.

Kentucky and Indiana have a boundary dispute, but it will not be serious until Kentucky begins mobilizing its colonels.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SENSITIVE ABOUT BLUSH OF YOUTH

"Dear Dr. Myers: I am a young girl 19 years old. I am still timid and I blush very easily. While I was in school I never could get up to recite without blushing and although I had the opportunity to finish high school, I left in my third year. You know it's no fun to get up and recite or participate in any school activity when one is self-conscious and blushes so easily.

"Well, I work now and when my boss, or anyone else for that matter, talks to me I become red in the face. I am one of eight children. I am very nervous and I become excited easily. Sometimes I get so nervous my face feels flushed and I feel very uncomfortable. Even my neck becomes red. It gets red in spots, and of course that looks very unattractive.

"I'm not exactly a child any more, but do you think anything could be done for me, or am I too far gone?"

"I am very unhappy. I go out very seldom. I keep to myself as much as possible. Will you please try to help me?"

How to Solve the Problem

I am glad you wrote me as you did and that you suppose I care that you or any other youth should suffer so. I am sure you can rise above your worries. Your problem is not half so serious as you think it is.

In the first place I wish you would get it out of your head that it is a terrible thing to blush. Your blushing would not embarrass you if you didn't think you shouldn't blush. While your expression of embarrassment over blushing can make you unattractive, the blushing itself, if you only knew, could make you more attractive giving you individuality, and marking you as different from the garden variety of girls. Anyway, blushing is a wholesome feminine trait. It's just too bad most girls and women don't blush more. So long as you think blushing is terrible you will have increasing fears about it, causing you to be still more. But as soon as you consider your blushing as an asset rather than a liability, you will feel relief. You will grow more comfortable and still more attractive.

Be a Good Listener

Make yourself go places where other young people are and don't talk unless you feel like talking. Try to listen well and enjoy what others say. Then they will like you for paying attention to them. For the more you think about them and what they say the less you will think about yourself, and the more comfortable, therefore, you will feel.

I wish, Miss —, you would keep a little secret notebook and write in it from time to time brief statements of your slightest successes at gaining more courage and feeling less embarrassed while with others. Write me again whenever you feel like it. You might get some help from my booklet, "Learning to Be Likable," which, though written for younger persons, contains much that applies to any age.

A selected list of books on personality fears and mental health may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

GRANDPA'S FIRST CHRISTMAS

Now grandpa's first Christmas is over and grandma sits shaking her head.

"As mad as can be in some matters," says she, "and ought to be packed off to bed."

But his eye is aglow with twinkle. His voice has a ring that is glad, "A Christmas worth while!" he remarks with a smile.

The first as a grandpa I've had!"

The grandson is fit as a fiddle, and grandpa is nursing his ears. His muscles are sore from a fall to floor.

When he stepped on a couple of cars.

He was busy from daybreak to nightfall.

Much busier than even the dad, but he laughingly tells, "Twas a Christmas with bells!"

The first as a grandpa I've had!"

Grandma says he'd have been a lot wiser.

Had he rested a part of the day. But he holly replied: "Let old women be wise!"

He'd rather be foolish and play!" And though now he must pay for his folly.

And again his arthritis is bad. "That is Okay with me!" says he, "Twas the first real Christmas I've had."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:39. Sun rises tomorrow 7:23.

It was a great day!

AFTER CHRISTMAS

Last week we felt rare tenderness. Compassion ruled each day.

We longed to scatter happiness—And make the whole world gay.

Oh, we spent all we could afford—And then a little more.

We thought of filling others' lives With peace—and joy—galore.

How freely, gladly, we gave things, Material—and not.

We tossed our money, smiles, good thoughts, To every dreary spot.

But Christmas passed; and how we've changed!

We're so much less appealing. I wish that we could always have That scrumptious Christmas feeling!

Purse snatching is getting quite common. The purses are carried so carelessly, it's no wonder. In the old days there was no purse snatching when the gals carried their money in their stockings—or somewhere out of sight.

MUCH BETTER

"Is your father's stomach ache better?" asked the teacher, the day after Christmas.

"Yesum," replied the boy, "it isn't aching half as loud as it did."

An after-Christmas thought:

There's always a tie between father and son, and son usually wears it.

SCOFFS AT BUSTLE

Has anyone actually seen a bustle—that is, an old-fashioned contraption like our grandmothers wore? Several months ago there were newspaper stories by fashion editors who said the bustle was going to stage a comeback. We don't believe it. The women are wearing some goofy things, all right, but the bustle will never become popular again any more than will pads for hips.—One Who Has Worn 'Em.

YULETIDE OFFERING

We had a happy 10 minutes yesterday morning on the street car with a little lady who lives out our way. She is going to be a dancer, she told us, but she isn't going to let her career interfere with marriage.

No, she hasn't picked out the lucky lad yet—she being only 10, you see.

"But one of the boys has picked me," she confided. "Just before Christmas he said he was going to give me a Christmas present and what do you think it was? On Christmas he said he was going to marry me when we grew up."

REAL GOODBYE

Other Readers' Questions Answered

Question: The girl who has her desk next to mine at the office gives me a cold smile if I say anything about the boss that is not complimentary. My father insists that she has the right attitude. Do you?—Cathy.

Answer: Yes, I do. If she is cautious she never allows herself to participate in criticism that may be quoted or overheard by some one who may lose her place for her. Moreover, as long as one's livelihood is dependent upon an organization's money one should—in conversation at least—be loyal to its officers. Even when away from the office you should not discuss your employer's business. Experience will teach you that those careful about these discretions are those who gain the promotions.

Question: Is it necessary for a man to rise when another man enters the room?—Thomas.

Answer: No, unless the latter is very elderly or distinguished.

What's What At A Glance

Prepare For Battle Over U. S. War Policy
Editors Of Nation Gird For Wordy Contest
Mid-Western Editors Are Setting Fast Pace

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Two outstanding western newspapermen appear to be squaring off for what looks like developing into an exceedingly hot fight over America's policy relative to today's overseas war situation.

One of the pair is Editor William Allen White of the Emporia, Kan., Gazette, with his Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Of course, this means "by aiding Britain," but the White committee was organized when John Bull did have an ally in France, now out of the conflict.

Editor White's most challenger is Editor Verne Marshall of the Cedar Rapids, Ia., Gazette, with his No Foreign War Committee, just incorporated in the Hawkeye state, but committed to a campaign on a national scale.

Production Chief William S. Knudson, of our national defense organization also has provoked some pretty sharp retorts by his intimations that our industrialists and labor don't seem to appreciate the "terrible urgency" of existing international conditions. Our big industrialists, to be sure, haven't said anything particularly easy in reply to Chief Knudson's remarks, but labor leaders have.

The British aid Editor White is clamoring for is "aid short of war"—that is, short of our participation in it. Editor Marshall, however, insists that Editor White's activities in reality are creating "just the psychology that led us into the last world conflagration." His idea is to squirt water upon Editor White's flames in order to prevent them from getting beyond control again, as they did the last time.

White in 1915

Editor White, it's true, tried hard to keep us from getting into that war. In 1915 he published an editorial in his Emporia Gazette urging us, for heaven's sake, to stay neutral, as "guardians of the sacred ark of civilization." Editor Marshall has dug up this editorial, and wants to know why the Kansasian's tone is so different today. Editor White says it isn't, but Editor Marshall says it is.

The Iowa editor emphasizes that he's all for impregnable American defense and that he deems American aid to Britain desirable, but that it mustn't "drag us into war." He defies anybody to call him and his new committee appeasers, totalitarians or anything but "determined pro-Americans."

Nevertheless, that's what the White committeemen are beginning to call their rival committee members, and all signs are that the controversy will get bitterer yet as it goes along.

Defense Production Chief Knudson's observation that industry and labor must be sold on our armament program was the crack that got over-heated under our workingmen's leaders' collars—both A. F. of L. and C. I. O.'s wide as their differences may be on other subjects.

President William Green of A. F. of L. promptly announced that labor's been sold on defense all along, and that this isn't a suitable juncture for hysteria—the impression he gives being that the hysteria is C. I. O.'s.

President Philip Murray of C. I. O. goes President Green one better with his assertion that if defense preparations are lagging, it's due to the defense commission's "stupid method" of distributing its orders. Plainly expressed the commissions' stupid, including Knudson, according to Phil Murray.

Politics?

There are industrial leaders who, without being quite as outspoken as Phil, complain that the commission hasn't sufficiently spread out its requisitions for defense supplies. Their story is that contracts have been allocated on the strength of comparatively a few companies' political pulls, thus swamping this few with work and creating bottlenecks.

In short, the defensive atmosphere in Washington is growing decidedly ill-natured.

So, apparently, is the atmosphere out in the sticks, if Editors White of Kansas and Marshall of Iowa are representative of it.

All hands enthusiastically indorse unity, but various and numerous groups indorse conflicting kinds of unity, even an obvious need of hitting on an old bogey, but no noticeable tendency in that direction at present.

Labor And Defense

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. IN a trenchant address the other night Mr. Herbert Hoover, stressing the need for speed in our defense effort, recalled that in the last war labor and industry waived the right of lockout and strike in favor of arbitration. Clearly, he said, the time has come to do that again.

MOST persons will concede that some agreement of that kind is vital. Most persons will further concede that there would be little difficulty in getting industry to enter that kind of agreement. The difficulty will be with the leaders of organized labor. In the first place, so far as industry is concerned, the Government is in position to compel acquiescence. Through the taxing and price-fixing powers it can render existing profits impossible and publicly pillory any employer whose attitude in any way is calculated to retard the defense program or whose spirit is not fully cooperative. Moreover, there is within the Administration a considerable group which literally itches for the chance to do exactly that.

WHETHER it is through fear or for other selfish motives, or solely for patriotic reasons, the fact is that there has not been to date a single instance of any employer remotely connected with defense contracting who has been recalcitrant, or reluctant or unhelpful. Questioned at a recent press conference, Mr. Roosevelt himself admitted it. Obviously, this cannot be said of the organized-labor leaders. The great bulk of union laborers are just as cooperative as anyone else and just as willing to make sacrifices for their country. But, while their leaders talk very loudly about their own public spirit, they are reckless enough in charging a lack of patriotism in others, they do not seem to lead very enthusiastically in that direction themselves.

Tribute Is Paid To P. J. Flaherty By His Employees

Magazine Published By
Johnson Bronze Company
Workers Honors Head
Of Company

EXPANSION DUE TO HIS VISION

Tribute to the executive genius and the vision of P. J. Flaherty, president and general manager of the Johnson Bronze Company, is paid in the current issue of "Your Company", the official plant organ which is edited and published by employees of the company, in the Christmas issue.

It recounts the growth of the company from the days of the old American Car and Ship Hardware company, as the firm was then known, when the entire force numbered less than 100 employees, to the great concern it is today.

The article follows:
"Here is the greatest 'Old Timer' of them all... for it is reasonable to assume that had he not come to New Castle 31 years ago we might not have any of our present crop of oldsters."

"It was back in 1909 when Mr. P. J. Flaherty decided to cast his lot with what was then known as The American Car and Ship Hardware Manufacturing company. More than anyone else, he deserves the credit for our present size and our present enviable standing in industry."

Prior to 1909 Mr. Flaherty had held a variety of positions. His first job, at the age of 16, was that of "check boy" in a large manufacturing plant near Pittsburgh. Next, he joined the Pennsylvania railroad at Verona, Pa. From here, he was transferred, or he should say, promoted, to the Pittsburgh office of the railroad. Mr. Flaherty's next position was with the Standard Fire Brick company, also of Pittsburgh.

"It is interesting to note that in his youth Mr. Flaherty usually held more than one position at a time. For instance, while he was employed by the railroad he also worked evenings for the Verona Water company and Saturdays for the Verona Building & Loan association. In both connections he served in the capacity of accountant."

"Many of our present old-timers can recall the days when Mr. Flaherty's father used to pay occasional visits to the shop. That was back in the days when the entire force didn't number 100... when the area covered by the plant was but a fraction of its present size."

"Times have changed... but old-timers and newcomers alike agree that Mr. Flaherty's coming to New Castle was the best thing that ever happened to Johnson Bronze."

"At this time of the year all of us wish both Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty a merry Christmas and health and happiness for 1941."

Propellor Plant To Be Expanded

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26—The Curtis Wright propeller plant at nearby Neville Island will be expanded four or five times its present size just as soon as government approval can be obtained for a new plant site, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A year ago the plant employed but 200 men. Today more than 1,000 are employed. The new plans call for construction of a plant with a minimum of 600,000 square feet under roof and employment of between 4,000 and 5,000 men. At least 35 acres are needed for the new expansion.

The plant at present is located on Neville Island and cannot expand further because there is no ground adjacent to the present site. Another section of the island may be used, it was indicated.

JESUS REQUIRES FAITHFULNESS

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Parable of the rich man who built new barns.

"To whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required."—Luke 12:48.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 29, is Luke 12, The Golden Text being Luke 12:48, "To whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required.")

The lesson today is on faithfulness. How many people are faithful to their trusts? How many times does the child in the home try to neglect the little duties assigned to him or her? But these children expect their parents to be faithful about their duties, they rely on father and mother, but cannot always see that the small jobs expected of them help make the home and themselves happier. That is one thing that is pleasant about faithfully doing one's duty. It gives one a very happy feeling. The doing of the special duty may not be so pleasant, but faithfully done, it makes one happy.

The Pharisees whom Jesus called hypocrites to their faces were an order created to prevent the Jewish nation from losing its purity and identity. In Jesus' time, however, they had become degenerate, had lost their spiritual and moral influence, and were hypocritical. They were no longer true to their mission, but masked their sinful lives by public prayers and protestations and by performing only the outward duties of their religion.

Jesus was speaking to a very large gathering. So many people were in the multitude that St. Luke tells us "they trod one upon the other." Jesus told His disciples that the hypocrisy of the Pharisees would be revealed. What they did in secret and said secretly would be known as if it had been shouted from the housetops.

He then referred to the persecutions which He knew would be the lot of His disciples. If they were martyred they were not to be afraid. "Be not afraid of them that kill the body and after that have no more that they can do," he said. If those who killed them had the power to kill their souls, then they might be afraid. But only the disciples themselves could do that—if they did not believe in the Lord and carry on His work.

More Value Than Sparrows

"Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings?" He asks them; "and not one of them is forgotten before God. But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows."

If each is true to his duty and confesses the Lord before men, "him shall the Son of Man also confess before the angels of God." Also, when they were persecuted, Jesus told them and dragged into the synagogues or before magistrates, they were not to worry about what they should say to defend themselves. The Holy Ghost would teach them what to say.

At this point in Our Lord's talk a man asked Him to speak to his brother and tell him to divide an inheritance with the speaker. But Jesus refused to consider such material things. They were not important as were the things of the spirit.

"Beware of covetousness," He told them. "For a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." And then He told them a story of a man who had grown rich through his harvests. He tore down his old barns and built larger ones, and said to himself "I will say to my soul 'Soul thou hast much goods laid up for many years, take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.'"

"But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

This does not mean that a man has not the right to possess wealth but that when he makes it the most important thing in his life and decides to live a merely material existence, eating, drinking and making merry, it is wrong. And no man can tell when his turn will come to go out of life. Better think of others and do all the good we can now, even if it means some sacrifice. It will be better for us hereafter.

No Useless Worry
We should not worry unduly either as to our future. If we really believe in God as our Father surely we will be provided for. Consider the ravens, they neither sow nor reap, nor have storehouses, but they are fed. The lovely flowers of the field do not toil nor spin, but even Solomon, in his glory was not dressed as they are.

"If then God so clothe the grass, which is today in the field, and tomorrow is cast into the oven; how much more will He clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

"But rather seek ye the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and these things shall be added unto you."

"A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." "For unto whomsoever much is given of him shall be much required."

Jesus then cautioned the disciples to be always ready and waiting for His return, and to be faithful and wise stewards. He also spoke of His mission on earth, which He said, was to "bring fire on the earth."

"Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you Nay, but rather division." Families would be divided. He warned them. And has it not been so all through the ages since He was here among men?

The signs of the times were clear, Jesus told them, but they could not see it. If a cloud appeared in the west they would expect a shower; and when the south wind blew they would look for warm weather; how was it, then, He asked them, that they could not see what was about to happen in the spiritual world?

This, then, is the gist of the teaching in this 12th chapter of St. Luke: We must be faithful to our trust, doing each day our duty with faith in the future through trust in God.

sue, which had seemed to be settled, concerning the awarding of defense contracts to firms which the NLRB considered unfair, but which the courts had not so held, could hardly be considered helpful. Nor was the recent speech of Mr. Philip Murray new OIO chief, calculated to promote good feeling and cooperative effort. In his first public utterance since he succeeded Mr. John L. Lewis, Mr. Murray violently denounced "certain rapacious and greedy" employers who "cared more for their dollars than for the welfare of their country."

PERHAPS Mr. Murray feels that he has to talk this way in order adequately to fill Mr. Lewis' shoes; but it seems a pity. It is the sort of stuff that ought to be saved for a political campaign, or, better still, not used at all unless there is more foundation for such epithetical words than now exists. At any rate, there seems no excuse at all for it now, and the sooner that sort of violent demagoguery is abandoned, the better for the cause.

Just as Mr. Roosevelt found that those who seven months ago told him that his headless and powerless Defense Commission could not work were right, so too, he must know, if he fairly faces the facts, that they were right when they said the full production for which he aims cannot be had without some relaxing of the rigidity of New Deal labor legislation.

YET he set his face hard in the other direction. Both he and Mrs. Roosevelt—in her column—have encouraged the labor leaders to insist on their rights and not yield an inch. Under the circumstances, it is hard to blame them; but the time certainly has come now when the President must realize that he is just as wrong about that as he was about the original Defense Commission setup. The most truculent of these labor leaders are his enthusiastic friends and supporters. They will take his advice and follow his lead. For one thing, they would have no more choice than the employers, and recalcitrance upon their part in opposition to his urging would stir up a public sentiment against which they could not stand.

IN brief, if Mr. Roosevelt wishes to supply the leadership, he can secure an arbitration agreement between industry and labor for the duration of the defense emergency. He can insure cooperation and guard against delay and bad feeling. He can temporarily relax the rules in the national interests, and he can end the kind of ugly stories which are coming out of the under-construction camps about labor demands. Mr. Knudsen can't do this. Mr. Roosevelt is the one man who can do it, because these labor leaders not only regard him as their friend but a great deal of their prestige is due to their White House relations. And if Mr. Roosevelt exerts himself to bring about this kind of arbitration agreement and so alter this belligerent "insisting-on-our-rights" attitude of the leaders, when no one anywhere wants to deprive them of their rights, he will get an amazing response, not only from industry but from the rank and file of organized labor as well. There will have to be an understanding of this sort with the labor leaders in the end. It is dreadful to waste time in delaying it.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

Ludlow Plans New Peace Move

Crusader For Peace Plans New Fight For Referendum On War

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Rep. Ludlow (D Ind., pioneer crusader for peace, today disclosed that he will launch a new fight in the new congress for his war referendum amendment to the constitution.

The measure, which he plans to introduce on the opening day of the 77th congress, calls for a constitutional amendment requiring a referendum before congress can declare an offensive overseas war.

With the international situation tense, Ludlow plans to consult a group of house members before the scope of the battle to be waged is determined.

"I shall keep the issue before the country by again introducing the resolution," Ludlow said. "I plan to consult other members on prospects for action in the new congress. I think that it is a vital principle of democracy and ought to be in the constitution without regard to a temporary situation. I think it ought to be as much a part of our basic law as the bill of rights—that those who have to fight wars, suffer and pay the bill should have a voice.

Not Injure National Defense

"It would not in any way injure the national defense. I believe in national defense."

The measure excludes the western hemisphere in line with the policy embraced in legislation enacted by congress to support the historic Monroe doctrine.

While Ludlow insists that the proposal be considered without regard to the European situation, a group of senators plan to fight for the proposal on the ground that it would keep the nation out of the European war.

Leaders of anti-war groups in both senate and house are beginning, through informal conferences, to perfect a bi-partisan organization to fight any moves which might lead the country into war.

"The president has led us so far down the road to war that I don't know whether we will be able to stay out," said Rep. Short (R Mo. "I have never followed that road. Now is the time for members to speak out and organize to halt this terrifying drift into the war."

Short, it was learned, has already informally talked to a group of Democratic members, both of senate and house, with a view to unified action against war.

You know you're approaching a camp town. So many things are going up—airplanes, buildings, and the price of eggs.

New Session To Begin Tuesday At NYA Center

Girls At Resident Work Center Will Resume Experience Training

After a short Christmas vacation the girls at the Crawford-Oakridge N.Y.A. Center will return and begin a new session on Tuesday, December 31. A class of 12 girls was graduated from the Center in an appropriate ceremony Monday evening.

The course of experience training at the Center has now been reduced to four months. This change was made in order that more girls might take advantage of the training.

According to Mrs. Rose Simons, resident director, there are a few vacancies available for local girls, who may be hired for the Center through Mrs. Olive Hewitt, chairman for Lawrence county.

Parcel Delivery Made Wednesday

All Holiday Mail Dispatched From Local Office Despite Handicap

Every bit of holiday mail that was received at the Mahoningtown Post Office up until Tuesday afternoon, was dispatched, according to Edwin McBride, superintendent.

A special parcel delivery was made Wednesday morning, at which time Christmas packages were taken to the district homes.

This year, sickness entered the Mahoningtown office, and most of the workers were inexperienced in the Seventh Ward. Taking this into consideration and the fact that the mail volume was much heavier this year, the local office did quite well in handling the Christmas mail.

Good Crowd At Christmas Service

There was a good sized crowd at the Christmas day service held Wednesday morning in the Mahoning Presbyterian church.

The service was conducted by Rev. John E. Myers, Jr., pastor of the church. He delivered a short sermon and the meeting only lasted 60 minutes.

Many families, together but once a year, at Christmas time, attended the service in a body.

SWISSVALE HOME

SCENE OF BLAZE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—Sparks from a short-circuited toy electric train was blamed today for Pittsburgh's only Christmas day "Christmas tree fire"—a $4,000 blaze in a Swissvale home.

Furniture on the first floor at the home of John J. Kirk, Swissvale, was destroyed after the sparks from the train ignited the tree and then spread through the lower floor area. Firemen brought the fire under control.

"Festival Of Lights," Will Be Held Friday Evening At Tifereth Israel Synagogue

Special late evening services at the Tifereth Israel Synagogue will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock, in observance of the Festival of Lights.

These special services will be held in commemoration of the victories of the Maccabean priests against the pagan worship introduced in the Holy Land by the Syrian ruler, Antiochus, in 165 B. C. E. The Jewish people revolted, this being the first revolt against religious oppression.

Music had its place in the court house Tuesday. At 9:30 the employees gathered in a group at the Building Superintendent Clifford James at the organ sang Christmas carols. At 4:30 again they gathered and sang some more. The organ is the one used in the jail for religious meetings.

On Monday night the A Cappella choir of the senior high school performed a concert in the jail for the prisoners. Under the direction of Robert Duff the youngsters did well and their music was appreciated.

Thirty-four prisoners spent Christmas Day with Sheriff M. M. Ingham. Of the thirty-four, four are women. The crimes which put them in jail run the gamut of violations. Two cases of murder, several aggravated assault and battery, drunken driving, a speakeasy proprietor, burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods, panhandling, some morals cases, and various motor violations.

Christmas dinner in the jail was substantial and well prepared. Matron Mrs. M. M. Ingham served a menu of roast pork, apple sauce, sweet potatoes, fruit salad, cup cakes, bread and coffee.

Candy was on tap in every office of the court house Tuesday. Boxes of cigars were sent in by some admirers of the officials, but candy was in first place.

Dream Highway To Have Burglar Alarm System

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH—The new Pittsburgh-Harrisburg "Dream Highway" will soon be a challenge to hold-up men.

A new burglar alarm system, guaranteed robbery-proof, is being installed at a reported cost of $385,000. It will be placed in all restaurants, service stations, toll booths, and maintenance buildings along the 160-mile route.

It works as follows: If a bandit should walk into a service station the attendant would step on a concealed button. The ensuing alarm would instantly and automatically connect with a radio system which will flash the signal to the Pennsylvania motor police.

Two-way radio sets are being installed in the 25 police cars patrolling the turnpike. These sets will enable patrolmen to converse with headquarters at Bedford, Pa.

Will Mark Roads Leading To State Super-Highway

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—Roads leading to the Pennsylvania Turnpike will soon be marked, directing motorists to the $70,000,000 super-highway, according to Keystone Automobile Club officials.

The club announced that Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes decided to post signs along all "feeder roads" to the turnpike in answer to motorists' complaints that it was difficult to find the Harrisburg-to-Pittsburgh express road.

Club officials pointed out that the signs would not only aid motorists to find the turnpike but would probably mean an increased traffic on the turnpike by advertising it.

At the same time Thomas C. Frame, chief engineer of the highway department, disclosed that the survey of the proposed Philadelphia extension of the turnpike would get underway about the middle of January.

"We have engaged an engineering firm from New York to supervise the survey for us. This firm handled the traffic survey for the turnpike," he said.

THOUSANDS CHEER NEW STEAMER ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

(International News Service)

THE WEIRS, N. H.—To the sirens and foghorns of hundreds of small boats, the boom of cannon and the cheers of thousands, the steamer Mount Washington made its maiden voyage on Lake Winnepesaukee.

Forced to half speed because of a burned-out generator, the maiden voyage covered a 50-mile radius, took five hours and ended at Wolfeboro and Alton Bay, where thousands cheered it and its 72-year-old skipper, Captain Leander LaVallee.

Among those on board was former mayor of Laconia, George A. Mitchell, who played in the Belknap cornet band at the launching of the first Mount Washington in 1873 in Alton Bay.

The first Mount Washington was burned at The Weirs wharf last December 22.

GROTON, Conn., Dec. 26.—The 1,475-ton submarine Grampus remained tied up at drydock Tuesday while authorities sought to determine why the cradle stuck to the hull of the craft when it was launched Monday. An effort also was made to determine whether the chain holding the cradle had been tampered with.

It was unknown whether any damage had been caused to the plates of the submarine on which $3,000,000 has been spent to date.

Don't Feed Bread To Squirrels Says City Forester

During the beautiful sunshine of the past few days, residents of the 600 block East Washington street, have noticed a squirrel lying outstretched atop the coping of a house for long periods of time in the sun. On the appearance of the animal in one of the backyards nearby "begging" for nuts, it was observed that it was affected with scabies, similar to mange that troubles some dogs.

Owen Fox, city forester, states in answer to inquiries, that the animal, from instinct, is exposing the affected parts to the actinic rays of the sun in an effort to attain a cure for the skin disease.

Mr. Fox states that folks should refrain from feeding squirrels with bread, which contains much starch, tends to bring on this skin affliction. On the other hand, nuts contain the necessary oils to keep the "coats" of these nimble animals in good condition.

PENN STATE OFFERS SHORT COURSE IN DAIRY FARMING

A four-week short course in dairy farming will be given by the department of dairy husbandry at the Pennsylvania State College from January 8 to February 5.

Approximately half of the time in this course will be devoted to lectures and discussions and the other half to practical work in the laboratories and in the College barn. Subjects to be considered include animal diseases, dairy breeds and judging, feeding and management of dairy cattle, farm slaughtering and testing milk for butterfat.

Students who expect to apply for positions as testers in dairy herd improvement associations will be required to remain two additional weeks, February 5 to 19, for instruction in the details of this work. Registration blanks and additional information may be obtained from A. L. Beam, director of short courses, State College, Pa.

ATTENTION TO DETAILS HELPS POULTRY FLOCK

Winter eggs are the laying bird's way of saying "Thank you" to the poultryman for good and plenty to eat at the right time.

The birds respond to adequate equipment. When cold waves strike the egg basket shows the effect if these essentials are not provided.

Many poultrymen lengthen the feeding time and stimulate production by using artificial lights. If pullets which have been laying for several months level off or drop in production, the use of artificial lights may avert further lapses in laying or aid in keeping a normal high flow.

Body weight must be maintained, and ample feeding time helps to keep the fowl well fleshed for good production. Pullets that are nearing maturity, now also will benefit from the lights.

Several methods of supplementary feeding are available. These consist principally of use of the regular mash in moistened form, fleshing mash, pellets of vary protein content and other feed combinations. Their chief value is to aid feed consumption, body weight, and production by stimulating the fowl's appetite.

The regular mash may be moistened with water or milk, and in very cold weather these liquids should be warmed. The amount fed is limited to what the fowl will clean up readily in 15 minutes. A fleshing mash made up of equal parts by weight of ground corn, ground oats, and condensed milk or buttermilk often is fed at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 fowls.

What is known as the "lazy man's" way of feeding wet mash as practiced successfully by some poultrymen consists of pouring the liquid over the top of the mash in the regular feeder and stirring the portion wetted into a crumbly mass. Pellets are used by many poultrymen in place of the moistened mash.

EXTENSION ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING

"A blueprint of Lawrence County Communities" will be the topic of a discussion by R. W. Kerns, Rural Sociology Extension Specialist, at the annual meeting of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association this year.

The meeting will be held Thursday, January 9 in the Highland United Presbyterian church, New Castle.

The morning session will be given over to business and discussions regarding agricultural and home economic activities during the past year. Mr. Kerns' talk will be a feature of the afternoon program. This meeting is open to the public and all are invited to attend.

YOUNG CATTLE POPULAR WITH MODERN FEEDERS

Within the past few years, there has been a trend away from older and heavier feeder steers to calves and lighter feeder cattle.

Another fact to be noted is the higher degree of finish put on these cattle, along with a higher grade of steer being fed.

The feeds available, as well as amounts and kinds, will often determine the grade of feeder chosen. If a farmer has lots of roughage, such as silage, hay and fodder, he will feed a lower grade and heavier steer, since the larger steer will handle more rough feed, be ready for market sooner and with not the degree of finish necessary when a high grade steer is fed. He depends on less finish and at a lower cost.

DAILY FOOD GUIDE AIDS IN PLANNING BETTER DIETS

4-H members spell HEALTH in capital letters, and these boys and girls try to be the "own best exhibit" of good health and growth, according to Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

These young people work on an all-round health program. Posture, exercise, fresh air, and sleep are all essential. Besides, growing boys and girls must have the right foods to have good growth.

Miss Miriam Birdseye, extension nutritionist of the United States Department of Agriculture, is one of the persons responsible for the health program of 4-H clubs throughout the country. She says, "Boys and girls between 10 and 16 years grow by leaps and bounds. That's why food and health habits are so important to 4-H club members. Good growth for boys and girls of this age makes for strength, endurance and poise."

The club member who has fed and cared for a calf does not need a nutrition book to understand that the right food makes for a strong, healthy body. What he needs is some guide to show him which foods make up a good diet for a growing person.

Boys and girls of this age are not expected to understand the whole field of nutrition, explains Miss Markle. But they learn about the protective foods, foods that are most important to health and growth.

Early in the club year boys and girls check their own diets against a list of protective foods. Then they can tell whether they are getting all of the necessary foods and learn where their diets need improvement. Here is the list of protective foods emphasized in 4-H club work, and suitable as a daily food guide for any growing boy or girl:

Milk, 3 or 4 cups, as beverage or in foods cooked with milk.

Fruits and vegetables, 4 to 5 servings.

Two vegetables besides potatoes, 1 green leafy or yellow vegetable, preferably 1 raw.

Two fruits, 1 citrus fruit or tomatoes.

Eggs, 1 a day if possible, or at least 4 a week.

Meat, fish, cheese, dried beans or peas—1 serving daily.

Bread and cereal—equally as much whole grain as refined cereal.

Cod liver oil, 1 teaspoon, a fine supplement in winter. After the need for these protective foods is taken care of, it is suggested that boys and girls eat additional bread and cereals as well as some sweets and fats to give energy needed for work and play.

It is advisable to begin the day with a good breakfast including fruit, milk, cereal, and an egg if possible. Even the first meal of the day must have its quota of protective foods, reminds Miss Markle.

Probe Death Of Hillsville Man

Aged Resident Of Mahoning Township Found With Bullet Wound Through Chest

Sheriff M. M. A 32-caliber revolver lay several feet away while on a dresser nearby was a 38-caliber revolver with several exploded cartridges and one or two bullets wedged in the barrel of the gun.

Mr. Creature, born in Italy October 23, 1861, the son of Joseph and Flora Bocolla Creature, was formerly employed by the Carbon Limestone Company.

Grant Street Home Damaged By Fire From Short Circuit In Tree

Only one fire that caused much damage over the holiday was reported by Fire Chief James E. Thomas, this occurring in the home of James H. Richards, of 207 East Grant street, on Christmas afternoon, when a short circuit in the wiring of a Christmas tree set fire to paper around the base of the tree, which in turn communicated to the curtains. A loss of around $40 was sustained. Members of the family had the fire out when firemen arrived.

At 10:20 o'clock this morning, seventh ward firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Martha Horchler, of 113 North Wayne street, when smoke filled the home, but firemen were unable to find any fire.

An automobile owned by Dominick Monico, of Youngstown, was damaged to the extent of $40 on Canyon street, at 4:12 p.m., Christmas Day. The fire started from a short circuit in the wiring.

Seventh ward firemen were called to 234 South Wayne street, Christmas eve at 8:37, for an auto fire. No loss was reported and no action was taken.

Added Funds Are Sent To Greece

Half Million Dollars Worth Of Supplies Purchased By Red Cross

GROWING NEED FOR AID SEEN

Purchase of an additional $500,000 worth of war relief supplies for Greece was announced here by the American Red Cross. Red Cross relief to Greece now totals $725,000.

The announcement followed receipt of cable advice from Charles House, newly appointed American Red Cross representative at Athens. His cable described growing needs for food, clothing and medical supplies among the civil and military population.

On a basis of House's reports, the Red Cross plans to send at the earliest moment the following supplies: $140,000 worth of clothing, $100,000 worth of dehydrated milk, $100,000 worth of blankets, $100,000 worth of cereals, cocoa, fruit juices, syrup and margarine, and medical supplies valued at $60,000.

If the Red Cross can obtain the supplies in time, they will leave New York for Athens in December aboard a Greek vessel. Other supplies previously obtained and valued at $125,000—consisting mostly of surgical dressings and garments produced by Red Cross chapters—cleared New York last week, the Red Cross said.

Meanwhile, drugs and surgical instruments valued at $50,000 were en route to Greece from a British Red Cross depot in the Middle East. Arrangements for the shipment were made by the American Red Cross, which will replace the British supplies.

To assist in the distribution of American Red Cross supplies in Greece, Raymond T. Schaeffer, formerly of the Red Cross staff in France, has been assigned to Greece. It also was announced.

Aid to Greece is being extended through funds contributed to the Red Cross war relief fund and through purchases made by the government from funds appropriated by Congress, it was explained.

This was the sixth annual treat for the underprivileged kiddies of the city provided by the Penn Theatre.

Anti-Sabotage Bill Proposed

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—State officials today were studying a "model" sabotage bill proposed for introduction in state legislatures by federal-state conference on law enforcement problems of national defense.

The proposed measure already has drawn the fire of CIO President Philip Murray who objected to one provision which provides for closing streets abutting private plants producing for national defense.

Deputy Attorney General Harrington Adams said, however, he believes Murray's objections "will be found to a large extent unfounded." "All streets passing an industrial plant engaged in defense work would not have to be closed," said Adams. "It would not apply to streets passing a plant where vital work was being carried on."

Baughner Appointed Deputy Treasurer

Finland Is Showing Way To World, Has Rebuilding Program

By JANE COCHRAN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Finland, since the end of its war with Russia, has settled 20,000 persons in new homes, built new fishing villages, and launched an extensive building program in cities and towns wrecked by Russian bombs.

The 20,000 were fished to livestock, household furnishings and money. Mme. Peggy de Gripenberg, wife of the Finnish minister to England, said today. The country, she added, must also provide for about a half a million Finns who refused to stay in territory transferred to Russian domination.

Plans for Tour
The tall, blonde woman, in the United States under the auspices of the Finnish Red Cross, plans to tour the country, thanking those who contributed to her country. She will show photographs of garments being worn, of hospital equipment in use and extend her country's thanks for the aid sent during the war and continuing at the present time.

"The Americans were so very kind we want them to know how their money was spent and how their gifts were used," she said. "The generous help given my country makes me feel that after all the golden rule is still in existence in some parts of the world and that the world isn't really such a bad place."

Finland, she said, began before the war was over rebuild but it still needs help. Thousands and thousands face the threat of famine and exposure because of the lack of provisions.

"We're receiving food through the Red Cross," she said. "That is sent in Finnish ships. You know, we're not an occupied country and we can get things through under the Red Cross flag."

Real Fighters
Speaking of the many wonderful gifts during the Finnish war, she told of one gift of a shipload of oranges from a Finnish relief committee in Greece. The note accompanying it bore a prophetic note:

"Finland is the first country to have lit the torch to show smaller countries that if they are attacked by a big nation they must fight. If Greece is ever attacked, we shall follow Finland's example."

The note was dated March, 1940. Mme. De Gripenberg, who with the Red Cross in Finland and also collected provisions in England. The current blitzkrieg has leveled her two homes in England and her servants were killed in bombing attacks she said.

The discussion of the real day and year of the birth of Jesus Christ has been going on for at least seventeen hundred years and will undoubtedly go on for as many more, with each decade having its scholar to add something to the subject.

"Christ was born on Christmas Day!" So we have sung in the carols since we were little more than babes. And that Christmas Day has been on the 25th day of December in the Western Church from around the year 350 A.D. For at least the first two centuries of the Christian era there was no celebration of the Nativity as a church festival because there had been no determination of the exact date. The early doctors were in disagreement.

A few set forth that Christ was born in the twenty-eighth year of a reign of Augustus and they fixed a date according to the Egyptian calendar, which would make Christmas as of May 20th. The learned Clement of Alexandria, in the second century, looked into these discussions and dismissed most of the opinions offered as mere superstitions. His own conclusion was that the birth in Bethlehem took place on November 18th, in the year 3 B.C.

A learned man of our own day, Professor Oswald Gerhard of Berlin, is inclined to think that Clement was wrong. He leans to the findings of the chronologists whom Clement disputed and his long research brings him to the decision that the birthday of Jesus was April 2, 7 B.C. Strangely enough April 2 was mentioned by Hippolytus, an early father, in whose writings also

Beloved Showman Dies Following Brief Illness At Age Of 89

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Daniel Frohman, beloved showman and dean of the American theatre, died today at Leroy sanitarium following a brief illness. He was 89.

Frohman, who was born at Sandusky, O., rose from an office boy on a New York city newspaper to become one of the most famous stock company and theater managers of all time.

His very name was associated with New York's most glamorous theatrical days of the past. At one time or another he was manager of such old halls as the Lyceum, Daly's, Fifth Avenue and Madison Square theatres.

Frohman was a member of many clubs and organizations connected with the theatre. He also was president of the actors fund of America.

News Briefs From City Hall

Only five persons faced Mayor Charles B. Mayne in police court Christmas morning. He was Christmas-minded and issued five discharges although he informed two men who interfered with a motorist and his wife that, were it not Christmas morning he most assuredly would impose fines upon them for what was said and done.

The men, who gave the names of William Peak and Stephen S. Smorski "stalled" in the middle of West Washington street at Beaver street and when the motorist remonstrated Christmas eve and tried to continue his drive, he assertedly was assailed. Two others were charged with fighting and drunkenness and the fifth with plain intoxication.

Charles Wolfe, a stranger here, was the name who gave today when he faced Mayor Charles B. Mayne in police court to answer to a charge of "pan handling" or soliciting money. Draft Will Not Hurt Big League Teams Too Much

Few Key Men On Big League Teams Will Have To Answer National Draft Call

AVERAGE OF SINGLE MEN NOT OVER FIVE

By SID MERCER

(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Ford Frick has made a survey of the possible effect of conscription on the personnel of National League players and prospects.

Although complete data is not at hand, the league president is convinced that the army draft will take few key men and that the caliber of major league baseball will not suffer.

"The returns of the survey so far," Frick says, "indicate that the average of single men on each squad is not more than five."

"Boston has a young team and with several players coming up from the minors and others with only one year's experience, they have 10 single men eligible for the draft—and I understand none has asked for exemption."

"The Phillies develop much of their own talent, and seven of their regulars are young single men. In the squad of 40 regulars or prospective Giants, there are only four bachelors. Pittsburgh also has four. The Cubs have single men listed among their regulars and nine more on their farm clubs."

No Heavy Drain
"It has been estimated that the percentage of eligibles who will be selected for service is only one out of 20, so you can see there isn't likely to be any heavy drain on the league's player resources at this time."

"These are, of course, peacetime conditions. In the last World War big league clubs recruited many replacements from among exempt players in the minors to fill the gaps caused by men going into service. That was under war conditions. In 1918, when the 'work or fight' requirements singled out the so-called 'unnecessary occupations,' the season was cut short."

"Baseball is willing to do its bit and more," added Frick. "We ask no exemptions; in fact, I hear of cases where club owners have urged young single men who are good baseball prospects to volunteer and get in their year of service before tackling a big league job. In some cases, I understand, club owners have offered to contribute to the support of dependents on these men while they are serving their country."

"This strikes me as a sensible idea."

HERE'S A ROOKIE
TOUGH TO BAFFLE
Unless pitchers get the old Indian sign on him, Thomas Francis (Kelly) Holmes may cause major league twirlers plenty of headaches. The young Newark outfielder, who will receive a tryout with the Yankees next spring, was the toughest man at the plate in the International last season. He batted .317 in 162 games and struck out but 13 times, once in every 51 visits to the platter.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

The 1940 rifle and pistol target shooting sport, reaching a new peak in number of competitive shooters and registered tournaments, showed a 48 per cent increase over the 1939 activities—to mark the trend of the last four years. Serving as an indication of the increased popularity in the sport are the 298 tournaments registered with the National Rifle Association in 1940 as compared with 196 in '39. 19,618 registrations in these events over the 13,217 of the previous year. In keeping with this trend is the onslaught on national records, surging upward toward the possible score of various courses, and in some cases reaching that goal.

Twenty-four records were broken over the outdoor courses alone. Most spectacular of these among the small core rifle group was the performance turned in by Arthur Jackson, Brooklyn, who lengthened the run of 20 consecutive bull's-eyes at 200 yards set at the 1939 national matches by Bill Schweitzer, Hillsdale, N. J., to 324. Jackson was firing in an official match at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and quit the trying ordeal after hours of continuous firing with his string of perfect hits unbroken.

Twenty horses have been nominated for the $15,500 California Breeders' Stakes, opening event on the 1940-41 racing season at Santa Anita park, Saturday. . . . Because of differences between the National Boxing association and the New York State Athletic commission boxing has suffered and efforts now are under way to have the two governing bodies kiss and make up. . . . Clark Griffith of the Senators traded Joe Krakauskas southpaw to the Indians for outfielder Ben Chapman. Some baseball sharps believe Joe may yet master his faults. His hurling has been erratic. . . . George Muha, member of the East team which will play the West in the Shriners game at San Francisco sustained an injured arm when kicked in practice and is one of the East gridders temporarily out. . . . Quarterback Fred Kling, Albany, Mo., high school, scored 203 of his team's 353 points this season. He made 33 runs for more than 25 yards each and scored 33 touchdowns and five points after.

BOWLING

Bowling, from an equipment standpoint, is the cheapest of all games to play. All you need is a well-fitted bowling ball, a comfortable pair of shoes and a bowling bag. These articles will last you for years, according to Walter Ward, noted authority.

It is readily understandable why a ball fitted to your hand will help your game. It makes a sense that bowling shoes will give you more secure footing. The bowling bag is necessary only because it allows for convenient transportation of the ball and shoes.

In choosing your bowling ball, you can select a two or a three-hole ball—whichever feels most natural in your hand. Be careful that the finger-to-thumb span is not too wide or too narrow. If it is, your grip will be awkward and there will be unnecessary wear and tear on your hand. Your delivery will suffer as a result.

To determine your proper span, place your thumb securely in the thumb-hole; don't jam it to the bottom of the hole, however. Now lay your hand flat on the surface of the ball, extending your fingers over the finger holes. The middle joint of your finger or fingers should extend about one-quarter inch beyond the inside rim of the finger holes.

This extra quarter of an inch will permit play for manipulation of the ball, allowing for easy release of the ball on delivery.

In the first game the Central Presbyterians will play the First Methodist team. In the second game the St. Vitus team battles the First Presbyterians. The third game will find the Second U. P. team meeting the First Baptists.

Church League Games Friday

There will be three more games Friday in the New Castle church basketball league. The first game will start at 7:45 o'clock at the "Y" court.

Blaik Chosen Coach By Army

Earl "Red" Blaik And His Entire Dartmouth Coaching Staff Signed To Coach Army

ARMY HOPES TO GET BACK AT NAVY

(International News Service)

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 26.—Head Football Coach Earl (Red) Blaik of Dartmouth and his entire staff prepared today to move over to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point for the 1941 season.

Blaik and his staff were released from five-year contracts at Dartmouth to accept the Army post. Accompanying Blaik to West Point will be Harry (Fats) Ellinger, line coach; Andy Gustafson, backfield coach; Frank Moore, end coach; Averill Daniel, freshman line coach, and Roland Bevan, trainer.

Blaik and Dartmouth Director of Athletics William H. McCarter asserted the wholesale shift was fulfillment of a patriotic duty. They pointed out Army was encountering difficulty in finding a replacement from the ranks of its officers for Capt. Bill Wood, who was recalled to active duty with the colors.

Best of Luck
It was their conviction, Blaik and McCarter said, that continuation of West Point football is vital to the morale of the military academy and that during the present defense emergency the morale of West Point was vital to that of the army as a whole.

Blaik and Ellinger have been at Dartmouth the past seven years. They came to Hanover from West Point where both were assistant coaches. Gustafson was a Pitt backfield coach before joining the Dartmouth staff in 1935. Moore completed his third year with the Indians last season. The Indians won 45 games, lost 15 and tied four under Blaik.

"We regret that Coach Earl Blaik has felt it his duty to go to West Point and congratulate the military academy on acquiring one of the best coaching staffs in the country," said McCarter.

"I shall always feel close to Dartmouth," Blaik said. "It is difficult to leave but in these times to return to West Point is not only a challenge but a duty and a privilege."

K. Pulaski Will Play Salem Five

The K. Pulaski basketball team will play the National Sanitary team of Salem, Ohio tonight at the K. P. Hall at 8:30 o'clock. The K. Pulaski Reserves will play the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock, meeting a classy local Class B team.

The Pulaskis have a fast team this year and expect to upset the Ohioans.

ALEX KAMPOURIS FANNED 136 TIMES

Alex Kampouris is no longer an easy touch at the plate. The little Greek, who goes to the Dodgers after wearing a Newark uniform in 1940, fanned but 136 times in 147 games. Kampouris developed into a home run hitter. This is believed to have contributed considerably toward Kampouris' success.

Seventh Rose Bowl Game For Stanford; First For Nebraska

Stanford University's appearance in the 1940 Rose Bowl game will mark the seventh time that the school colors of the Palo Alto institution have graced the rose banked Pasadena arena.

Stanford, since the present series began in 1916, lost three games, won twice and was deadlocked once.

First For Huskers
The coming clash marks the first showing of a Nebraska eleven in the Rose game. The Huskers may be as lucky as Notre Dame, Alabama, Columbia and some of the others which copied victories on their first try. Then, again, Nebraska may experience the same fate that befell Duke, Pitt, Tennessee and others.

The "de-emphasis" program is hard to swallow, speaking in terms of dollars and cents. The Press reported that a matter of approximately $1,500,000 in bonds still outstanding in the $2,600,000 Pitt Stadium opened in 1923. The drop is even more noticeable when you turn back the pages to 1938 and discover that the "dream team" grossed about $445,000, which isn't hay boys. . . .

State Second In Big Game

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—Pennsylvania is the second-ranking big-game state in the country, having some 827,400 animals of four species, according to figures recently compiled in the third annual nationwide big-game inventory conducted by the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior. More than 5,840,000 big-game animals of 15 species are estimated to be in the United States.

Second largest big-game population in Pennsylvania is the black bear with a total of 2,250. Buffaloes are third with 125, while 15 elk round out the Keystone big-game list.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 26.—Malouf, brilliant Southern Methodist quarterback, stood out today as a star of stars following his flashy performance yesterday as the southwest football all-stars defeated St. Mary's eleven 34 to 6 in a game played for the benefit of British refugees.

Malouf pulled the string on four all-star touchdowns, passing to Britt, Arkansas end, for one, to Loomis, Texas Christian end, for two others, and to Lockmore of Trinity for the fourth. The other all-star touchdown was scored by McEldain of SMU on a plunge.

The all-stars dominated the game throughout, except when Curtis Sandig, who played a tremendous game for the Rattlers, broke loose for the Catholic school's only touchdown.

DETROIT, Dec. 26.—Second baseman Charley Gehring has signed a contract for 1941, marking his sixteenth consecutive year with the Detroit Tigers, owner Walter Briggs announced Tuesday from Miami Beach, Fla.

Gehring was the first Tiger to place his signature on a 1941 contract and thus ended rumors that he was ready to retire. Gehring will be 38 next May.

Owner Briggs offered to pay all medical expenses Gehring might need to get in shape next spring but the star declined, saying he is in "fine shape" and expected to go to Hot Springs, Ark., for a holiday within the next few weeks.

Henry Says He Would Like To Meet Zivic Again, Has Been Resting

By HYPE IGOE

(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—He was the only man ever to hold three ring crowns at one time. Feather, lightweight and welterweight king he was, truly the most remarkable ringman of all time.

He had to give up his featherweight title won from Petey Sarron because he wanted to fight Barney Ross for the welter crown. He took Barney's title. Then he snared Lou Ambers, Ambers won it back and Lou Jenkins knocked out Lou to become the 135-pound champion.

Wants Another Chance
Henry Armstrong came up with only the welter coronet left to him to fight Fritz Zivic. It was a savage fight. Henry was far out in front when his eyes were closed and Zivic came on to win the decision and the title. The last of the treasured possessions!

At least 18,500,000 fur-bearing animals were trapped in 43 states and Alaska last year, the Fish and Wildlife service reports.

Louisiana trappers reaped the biggest harvest in point of numbers—2,546,000 animals, including 2,200,000 muskrats. A million and a half muskrats were trapped in Maryland, placing that state second on the list. Other states follow in this order: Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, New York and Kansas.

RAILROADS READY FOR WAR TASKS, MANEUVERS SHOW

PHILADELPHIA -- Moving 250,000 soldiers of the U. S. army and national guard to war maneuvers was taken "in stride" by the railroads of America.

This is the way officials of the carriers characterized handling of the gigantic three-day traffic peak which was larger than any during the World War. Railroad men point with pride to the fact that the job was done without flurry or error and, they claim, it demonstrated the railroads' ability to aid in the nation's defenses in a crisis.

This decision is made possible by handling huge crowds bound for seashore points during the summer, football games in the fall, and political rallies almost any time during the year.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE--HAPPY A M I

OH, BILLY--I HAVE YOU--THAT'S ALL I WANT--ALL I'LL EVER NEED TO MAKE ME HAPPY--

WHY SO QUIET AND SOLEMN, ANNIE? HAS ANYTHING GONE WRONG?

NO--THAT'S JUST IT, SAM--EVERYTHING'S GOIN' SO RIGHT FOR THE FOLKS I LOVE--I'M SO DARN HAPPY I FEEL LIKE BAWLIN'--

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The stock market today was Wall Street continued in its holiday mood. Prices generally were higher at the opening, but developed some irregularity in later dealings.

Many traders were on the sidelines. First-hour sales totaled 160,000 shares vs. 200,000 shares on the same period Tuesday.

Lima Locomotive and DuPont displayed independent strength, each climbing about a point. These were among the few exceptions to the general rule of narrow price changes.

Fractional gains included those in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, United Aircraft, American Car & Foundry, General Electric, American Smelting, Pennsylvania R. R. and Consolidated Edison.

Equal losses were incurred by International Nickel, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, General Motors, Chrysler and Standard Oil of N. J.

A number of pivotal issues held at Tuesday's closing levels, as U. S. Rubber, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Pullman, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, and Sears Roebuck.
